Social and Personal

Miss Branch, of 1 West Franklin, left Richmond yesterday for New York City, where she will spend a few days. Miss Branch expects to return to this city for the first time where she will remain for a few weeks.

Hugh Campbell and Miss Frantz will leave town on Monday morning, where they will be the guests of friends for a few days. Mrs. Cunningham Hall is also going to Washington on Monday. They will be the guests of Senator and Mrs. A. Swanson for the inauguration.

Mr. Patrick Hamilton has returned to his home in Petersburg, after a visit to Richmond. Mrs. Hamilton was the guest of her sister, Mrs. James Hodges Mann, in the Executive Mansion during her stay in this city.

Dixon a Bride.—Baltimore Star of yesterday carried the following of interest to the relatives in Virginia: Julia Bartlett Dixon, daughter of Mrs. Dixon and the late William F. Dixon, was married to William F. Dixon, son of William F. Dixon, of New York, at 6:30 o'clock yesterday evening at the home of the bride's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. John S. Gibbs, Jr., 1026 Calvert Street. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Hugh Rhoads, D. D., pastor of Emmanuel church, and was followed by a seated and informal dancing.

The bride entered with her brother-in-law, by whom she was given in marriage, and was met by the bridegroom, attended by his brother, Joseph Edith, of New York, as best man. The bride was of white satin with a veil and carried a shower of flowers.

Queen Gibbs, niece of the bride, and Florine Dana, of New York, niece of the bridegroom, were the bride's only attendants. They wore white lingerie gowns, with pale blue sashes, and carried gilt baskets of pink sweet peas. Isaac H. Dixon, Jr., and Dixon Gibbs held the ribbons forming an aisle through which the bride party walked. The rooms were decorated with palms and smilax and quantities of white lilies.

"Later in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Meredith left for their wedding journey, after which they will occupy an apartment in New York."

Visiting Here.

Mrs. George W. Hardwell, of St. Paul, is the guest of Mrs. H. P. Taylor, at the latter's home, 1801 Grove Avenue. Mrs. Hardwell will spend a month or more in Richmond visiting relatives and friends before returning to St. Paul.

At the Country Club.

Society people will be much in evidence at the Country Club of Virginia for dinner this evening, and also for the informal hop later in the evening. There will be music until 11 o'clock, and the clubhouse will be decorated in spring flowers with vases of tulips and daffodils on each table.

The Hermitage Golf Club is also an interesting gathering place for society these days, and any number of delightful parties have been given there during the past week. Tea is served on Saturday afternoon of each week, and there is informal dancing and music from 5 to 7 o'clock.

Club Tea Room.

The tea room conducted by the Girls' Club, auxiliary to the Bell Branch Day Nursery, every Lenten season, is one of the most interesting places for the younger society set each afternoon. The tea tables are arranged in the palm garden of the Jefferson hotel, and are decorated with bowls of bright flowers. Hostesses for this afternoon are Miss Ella Williams Buck and Mrs. Robert G. Cabell. They will be assisted by several of the debutantes of the past season.

Entertainment in Alexandria.

Mrs. George Pryor Anderson entertained the Musical-Art Club Wednesday evening at the first monthly meeting of the organization at her home in Alexandria. The program was varied and attractive. The meeting opened with a chorus by the girls, which was beautifully sung, and was followed by an ably rendered chorus by the men. A duet was sung by Mrs. Lewis H. Machen and Miss Alice Anderson. Vocal solos by Mrs. Machen, Miss Anderson, Miss Dorsey Ashton, Messrs. Stanley Blanton, Julian T. Burke, Jr., and James Roberts, Jr. Instrumental selections were played by Misses Christina Keim, Estelle Barker, Lola Ashton, Ruth Roberts and Katherine Waller. Selections on the guitar and mandolin were given by Miss Anderson and George Anderson.

Those present were Mrs. George P. Anderson, Mrs. Samuel L. Monroe, Mrs. Lewis Machen, Messrs. Dorsey Ashton, Esther Burke, Alice Anderson, Ruth Roberts, Christina Kemper, Lola Ashton, Katherine Waller, Messrs. George Anderson, Stanley Blanton, James Edney Douglas, Jr., Julian T. Burke, Jr., William Brooke, James Roberts, Jr.

For Miss Rountree.—Mrs. Bryce D. Brooker, of 3 East Franklin Street, entertained Monday afternoon in honor of her niece, Miss Marion Rountree, of Williston, S. C. The color scheme was pink and green, and the guests were given green satin boxes filled with pink candy, as souvenirs. A number of young girls called during the afternoon, among whom were Miss Marie Chevalier, Miss Hazel Bradley, Miss Nell Murphy, Miss Hazel Chevalier, Miss Marie Brown and Miss Myra Gills.

HE IS CONVINCED BY HIS THIRD WIFE

Gutman Now Has No Further Use for Any But "Family" Bank.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] New York, February 28.—It took three wives to convince Isaac Gutman, a wholesale candy manufacturer, that there was a safer place than a bank for his savings. The receiver trying to locate the assets of the firm asked him where he invested his money, and Gutman explained the fact that he had not invested it by saying: "My first wife kept it at me, year in and year out, to draw my money out of the bank. I married again, my second wife also tried to convince me that she had a safer place for my savings. But I refused to listen, and it was not until the present Mrs. Gutman, the third, started on the same argument that I was convinced. So I drew it out twenty years ago and have never put a cent of it back."

And where is this safe and certain bank? asked the receiver.

Gutman looked at his wife, who patted her knee. "Here," she answered.

ADDRESS BY DR. DODD.—Lectures at Chapel Hill on "Robert James Walker." Chapel Hill, N. C., February 28.—Dr. William E. Dodd, professor of history at the University of Chicago, delivered an interesting lecture in Gerard Hall Wednesday night on Robert James Walker, America's greatest Imperialist. Walker, Secretary of the Treasury under Polk, author of the famous Walker tariff of 1846, which has been called America's greatest tariff, and financial representative of the United States in Europe during the Civil War, Dr. Dodd is a North Carolina by birth, a native of Wake County. He taught at Randolph-Macon, and is now at Chicago. He has written a number of books on Southern statesmen. His lecture on Walker is composed from material discovered by himself, and many of the facts in the lecture have never been published. Over 200 students were present.

"SCARECROW" OF STEEL INDUSTRY

Rockefeller Was Feared by His Rivals of the Carnegie Company.

BOTH SOUGHT MONOPOLY

Witness Describes Fight for Control, Fought in Late Nineties.

New York, February 28.—John D. Rockefeller and Andrew Carnegie fought each other in the late nineties to monopolize the Lake Superior ore lands, and Mr. Rockefeller caught Mr. Carnegie's company violating an agreement and forced it to give up ore properties containing 75,000,000 tons, according to testimony at the hearings to dissolve the United States Steel Corporation under the Sherman antitrust law, resumed here to-day.

James Gayley, former vice-president of the corporation and a director of the Carnegie Steel Company, previous to its acquisition by the corporation in 1901, was the witness through whom the testimony was adduced. While Mr. Gayley's memory had to be frequently "refreshed" by reference to minutes of the Carnegie Company, he told Mr. Rockefeller having been pictured as a "scarecrow" of the steel industry because of his control of vast ore properties in the Lake Superior district. He testified also to efforts of the Carnegie Company to obtain new properties in the district as the result of representations that Mr. Rockefeller had proposed to join with the Federal Steel Company, the Carnegie's big rival, to "control the manufacture of steel the same as he does oil."

Describes Competition. Mr. Gayley described ore property acquired by the Carnegie company during the period when the alleged competition between the two big industries was on. From the minutes of the Carnegie Company, read into evidence by counsel for the government, it appeared that the Consolidated Iron Mines Company, controlled by Mr. Rockefeller, made an agreement with the Minnesota Iron Company, whereby the latter company was to purchase no more iron mines, leasing its mines from the Consolidated Iron Mines Company. It then developed, according to Mr. Gayley's testimony, that the Carnegie Company in 1900 purchased properties containing 75,000,000 tons of ore.

This, said the witness, resulted in a meeting in New York between himself and another official of the Carnegie Company and John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and the Rev. Frederick T. Gates, Mr. Rockefeller's ore agent.

"Did Mr. Gates demand of the Oliver Mining Company that there should be turned over to the Consolidated Iron Mines Company without condition 75,000,000 tons of ore acquired by the Oliver Iron Company in contravention of the agreement between the two companies?" asked Jacob M. Dickinson, attorney for the government.

"Mr. Gates did make such a demand at the time, but we explained that under the agreement Mr. Rockefeller was not supplying us with all the ore lands we needed."

"Did your contention prevail?" "Well, we turned the properties over to them, which was construed as an admission that their claim was correct," smiled Mr. Gayley. "They agreed to make a new deal, however, under which we were to receive larger tonnages."

Judge Dickinson read from a letter written by Gayley to the directors of the Carnegie company, in reference to the meeting.

Bluff Game Difficult. "It is difficult to play a game of bluff when the other party holds the cards and you know it," the letter read. "Nevertheless, we have retained 60,000,000 of the 75,000,000 tons."

The 60,000,000 tons, Mr. Gayley explained, were obtained by agreeing to lease the lands from the Consolidated Iron Company.

Another passage from the minutes expressed the fear that to turn the properties over to the Consolidated Company would be the same as turning them over to the Federal Steel Company.

Judge Dickinson tried to bring out from the witness that "Rockefeller's people" had an interest in the Federal's subsidiary, the Minnesota company, but Mr. Gayley professed ignorance of such a thing.

Other passages from the minutes referred to properties bought "for fear they will be taken by the Federal." The witness was able to throw little light on these transactions.

The hearing was adjourned to next Wednesday and Mr. Gayley will continue his testimony.

TRIAL OF STANLEY AT APRIL COURT

Judge's Illness Causes Postponement of All Criminal Cases.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Rocky Mount, N. C., February 28.—Owing to the illness of Judge J. L. Campbell, the criminal cases set for the February term of the Circuit Court were postponed till the April term. Among them was the case of the Commonwealth vs. Bernard Stanley, charged with the shooting from ambush of Special Officer A. L. Edmondson in December, 1911. Judge Campbell held court for Judge Campbell this term, but no cases of importance were tried.

TEST LADDER TRUCK

Firemen See Exhibition of Motor Tractor With Old Engine.

The official test of the new automobile hook and ladder truck will be made this afternoon at 4 o'clock. An exhibition test here by the Knox Automobile Company for exhibition purposes. The tractor consists of a reserve fire engine of the horse-drawn type used for the exhibition, the front wheels and engine removed and the central line pin hooked to the tractor. A demonstrator thereupon drove the tractor up and down Broad Street at a speed of 10 miles an hour, with a heavily-loaded engine. The fire board is considered the purchase of one or more tractors to convert horse-powered fire engines into motor-powered engines. The new hook and ladder truck, purchased from the American Ladder Fire Engine Company, to be tested to-day, has a ninety-horse-power separate tractor, to which is hooked a regulation eighty-five-foot ladder truck, with the front wheels and tongue removed.
